Edmontonians are invited to a drop-in engagement session to learn more about proposed changes to the Strathcona Area Redevelopment Plan (ARP) to incorporate the recommendations from the City's planWhyte Land Use study.

The planWhyte study contains a series of recommendations to strengthen the heritage and character of the Strathcona area, manage future growth to benefit community and local business, and revitalize the heart of Old Strathcona as one of Edmonton's premier arts, culture and tourism destinations. The proposed changes ensure this planning direction is included in the Strathcona ARP.

The engagement session will be an opportunity to share your feedback on the proposed changes with the City. Feedback will be summarized in a report to City Council when the proposed changes go to a future Public Hearing for a decision.
